Gunmen Try To Kill Akron Investigator Of Vice Conditions

Police Round Up Underworld Characters In Probe of Second Attempt On Life Of Kyle Ross, Solon, Sunday Night

Akron, Aug. 27.—A round-up of underworld characters in an attempt to run down the gunman who, last night, tried to assassinate Councilman Kyle Ross, leader of an investigation into vice conditions here, was in progress at police headquarters today.

Last night was the second time the underworld has struck back at him since he launched his probe into the activities of gangsters and bootleggers here, Ross admitted today.

The councilman has had a series of floodlights installed in his back yard for protection. Last night, shortly before midnight, his wife was awakened when she heard a prowler on the basement stairs. She awoke her husband, who procured his revolver and went into the kitchen.

Bullet Misses Solon

"Take that," came a voice from the rear porch, and a bullet crashed through the kitchen door striking the wall near Ross.

The councilman snapped on his floodlights, illuminating the yard and ran onto the porch, where the first shot was fired from. He shot at a figure, lurking in the shadow of a nearby garage. The man fired from the shadows and Ross returned the fire.

By this time a neighbor, Ed Hardesty, awakened by the shooting, was aware of what was happening, had thrown up a bedroom window and fired a shot from a rifle at the prowler, who then fled.

Basement Walls Afire

Ross had by then discovered that the basement of his house was afire. The walls had been soaked with gasoline and ignited, a subsequent investigation disclosed. The fire department was summoned and the blaze quickly extinguished.

Friday night Ross had a narrow escape from death when intruders turned on the gas jets in his home and threw off a main switch, cutting off the electricity. Ross stepped into the house later, pressed an electric light button and when there was no light, was about to strike a match when a neighbor, Mrs. Belle Hendershot, seized him arm and told him she smelled gas. Dems Making Plans For Winning West

Raskob Sees Leaders In St. Louis Today On Fall Plans

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—Turning from the Atlantic seaboard for the first time since they opened their drive to elect Gov. Alfred E. Smith to the presidency, Democratic campaign chiefs assembled here today to launch their offensive in the vital and debatable agricultural states of the upper Mississippi valley.

National committeemen and committeewomen, state chairmen, candidates and a host of party lieutenants from ten nearby states were called here to confer with Chairman John J. Raskob of the national committee upon the progress and prospects of the campaign in their respective states. They will submit plans for help from the national organization, discuss issues and chart budgets from campaign operations until election day.

Raskob Sees Hawes

The first business on Raskob's program following his arrival this afternoon was a conference with Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri, director of the St. Louis regional campaign headquarters.

Hawes, who has been lining up his territory for several weeks, had a complete tentative campaign program ready for submission to the national managers. Tomorrow this program will be gone over in detail and approved in final form.

Raskob, accompanied by Senator Peter G. Gerry, chairman of the national advisory committee, brought to the middle-west two definite campaign policies which were greeted with approval.

INVITE REST OF WORLD TO TAKE SIMILAR PLEDGE

Statesmen Gather In Paris And Affix Names to Multilateral Pact In Same Room Where League of Nations Was Given Birth

Paris, Aug. 27.—Through the signing of a multilateral treaty renouncing military force as an instrument of national policy, 15 nations, representing two-thirds of the world's fighting power, agreed today never again to go to war. The rest of the world was invited to take the same pledge.

The scene of this historic event was the Salles des Horloges in the French foreign office on the Quai D'Orsay, where the League of Nations was born under the sponsorship of Woodrow Wilson, then president of the United States.

Is Solemn Occasion

The participants in the ceremony composed the most distinguished group of plenipotentiaries since the signing of the Versailles peace treaty.

The solemnity of the occasion was reflected in the attitude of the signatories themselves and the few hundred fortunate persons who were able to gain admittance to the great hall of clocks to witness the consummation of what is regarded in Europe as the most powerful and far reaching step yet taken to abolish war and secure universal peace.

Some Military Pomp

Frank B. Kellogg, American secretary of state, who carried on negotiations for the treaty, was one of the outstanding figures at the conference. Next to him stood Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who had originally proposed an anti-war treaty.

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion there was no military display. The nearest approach to it was the presence on Quai D'Orsay of the Garde Republicaine, which saluted each of the foreign ministers and ambassadors as he arrived at the foreign office.

Have Places of Honor

Inside the Salles des Horloges, the signatories took their places around a large horseshoe-shaped table covered with red baize.

M. Briand and Mr. Kellogg had places at the top and center of the table. Chief interest centered upon these two men who had inaugurated and carried out the plan for a world treaty renouncing war.

It was an historic moment as the delegates faced these two statesmen who had labored ceaselessly for 15 months to bring about this peace pact.

Briand Presides

At 3 o'clock Foreign Minister Briand formally called the brilliant assemblage to order, and welcomed the plenipotentiaries on behalf of the government of France. He de- (Continued on Page 5)

PROBERS BLAME DEFECTIVE CAR

Lights Failed to Show In Tower and Switch Was Then Thrown

New York, Aug. 27.—Information that the Times Square subway wreck of last Friday resulting in death of 16 persons, was caused by a defective car, improperly inspected at the Van Cortland yards was given to the Transit Commission today.

The commission, immediately sent investigators to the yards to check up the story although it did not give the theory its official sanction.

According to this newest development the stripping device of one of the cars was out of order and that it failed to register the lights as it passed over the signal switch.

This would cause the towerman it was explained to believe the fatal train had passed the switch, for he is guided solely by the lights, and would then throw the switch for the next train.

HOOVER AND BUTLER

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, takes issue with Herbert Hoover on the nominee's declarations concerning prohibition and national defense. In fact, Dr. Butler takes such violent issue that he was compelled to pen a long letter to the editor of a New York newspaper, taking the Republican nominee to task. It would seem Dr. Butler's hope to make his letter of more than passing importance in the approaching campaign. In this, however, to the man in the street, it would seem that he is doomed to disappointment.

Mr. Hoover in his speech of acceptance, declared that "the United States must and shall be respected"—that the government "must and shall maintain its naval defense," and Dr. Butler decries the assertion by reading "fear" into the Hoover phrase when "respect" was the word the nominee used. In other words, Dr. Butler, pacifist, seems opposed to Mr. Hoover's desire to maintain a navy which will be adequate at all times to command the respect of all the other nations of the earth.

To imagine the United States attempting to maintain a position of respect among the nations of the world without a navy capable of upholding the American tradition that the seas must and shall be free all the time, is to imagine a country which has lost all international respect and has ceased to have any standing in any of the foreign capitals. Mr. Butler roars against an adequate navy, and points to the Kellogg peace plan, or pact to outlaw war, and Hoover's decision for an adequate navy, as an effort to carry water on both shoulders.

Mr. Butler's analysis of the situation is far fetched. Even with every power in the world signatory to the Kellogg pact, it still would be necessary for the United States, and other principal nations to maintain an adequate navy.

On prohibition Dr. Butler is as radical as he is on national defense. He criticizes Mr. Hoover's declaration in favor of law enforcement as a declaration for lawlessness and for a continuous and organized assault, under official protection, upon the foundations of the government. Such a declaration by Dr. Butler is entirely misleading, and not at all pertinent to the case.

The government cannot remove the amendment to the constitution, regardless of Dr. Butler or any other of wet leanings. That is a task for the people. They voted in prohibition, and they will have to vote it out. For Mr. Hoover to wink at law enforcement, if he is elected to the presidency, is for him to violate his oath of office to uphold the constitution, and manifestly it would be impossible for Mr. Hoover to do such a thing.

Dr. Butler has seized upon two issues of the many confronting the people in the forthcoming election, and is seeking to make mountains of them. After a careful perusal of his letter to the editor of the New York newspaper it seems impossible to consider it in any light other than another scrap of paper. That Mr. Butler's letter will be completely forgotten long before the votes are polled in November, goes without saying.

What Others Say

NEW GERMANY

New Germany just has celebrated its ninth anniversary. An imperial German empire was for many years a menace to the peace of the world and finally, brought about the most dreadful and devastating conflict in the history of mankind. The German republic not only has greatly assisted toward the stabilizing of Europe, but gives excellent promise of intent and purpose to assist in stabilizing the peace of the world.

The transition from empire to republic in Germany not only was an event of gratification for all nations allied against her during the war, but, almost over night, it gave to the German people what they never before had enjoyed in all the history of their race—constitutional liberty, a destiny freed from the obsessions of Hohenzollern rule and the restricting influence of a caste system which represented and exemplified a superlative social intolerance.

The republic has grown steadily stronger. There is not now the remotest possibility of a Hohenzollern return to power, and the Junker phase of the German life swiftly is passing away. The solid character and intelligence of the German people have decreed a government by and for the people.

And von Hindenburg—extreme type of the old regime, the idealized lord of battles and former firm prop of the empire—von Hindenburg more than any other man, saved and steadied the new republic.

The German savior, first president, pointed the people's way; the Hohenzollerns had marred their princely escutcheon with the stain of an abject cowardice; the fate of the nation was precarious and problematical. Then came the bluff and rugged Hindenburg, true patriot, who set the interests of his country above the experiences, traditions, prejudices and glories of centuries; conquest, achievement and rulership, giving his free, firm and sincere support to the new order.

From that time forward the destiny of Germany was secure. The wisdom and statesmanship of the old soldier won the minds and hearts of the brilliant and able men who became his coadjutors in the reshaping of a great nation. Their progress and success in less than a decade is a matter for marvel and happy gratulation. Germany as a republic is destined to become not the least among the props of a wholesome Christian civilization.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

UN-AMERICAN

The searching of several thousands of visitors to the French liner by customs agents seems to us a perfect example of how not to enforce a law. These were friends of passengers sailing on the Ile de France. They had every right to be where they were and the only suspicious fact was that some of them had been on board a foreign ship.

It would seem obvious to any federal agent in his senses that he had ample opportunity to enforce the law without violating the persons of the American citizens. He could police the ship, for the most effective means. Instead, the visitors, on departing, were subjected to a slapdash and insulting public search as if they had been so many pickpockets. If a few bottles were found—and there seems to be question whether a single bottle was seized—these violations were small indeed compared with the grave violation by the authorities of a fundamental American right, "the right of the people to be secure in their persons . . . against unreasonable searches and seizures."

Such lawless and wanton annoyance to several thousand innocent citizens is the greatest incitement to lawlessness that could be conceived. It undermines respect for the government. Mr. Hoover has referred to "grave abuses" in the enforcement of the Volstead act. We do not know what he had in mind, but we can conceive of few greater abuses of public authority than this blundering invasion of individual privacy.—New York Herald Tribune.

THAN IS DYING HARDBy Royal S. Copeland, M. D.
United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

"Captain of the Men of Death." This is the term Bunyan applied to dread tuberculosis. No better name could be found to describe this terrible scourge. Statisticians say that one-eighth of all the deaths among humans are caused by it.

We have marched forward in our war against this captain. But in the United States and Canada, in spite of our progress, about one-tenth of the deaths are due to tuberculosis. Domestic animals fall victim to it. Chickens and other fowl and pigs, but particularly the cattle which supply us with meat and milk, are commonly affected.

Fortunately for the human family cooking destroys the germ and germ products of tuberculosis. Official inspection makes it improbable that meat from infected animals will reach the homes. But should it be sold by some mischance, its preparation in cooking does away with the danger of infecting the family.

But when we consider milk, we are dealing with another question. Infected milk is responsible for many cases of tuberculosis in children.

It has been estimated by competent students of the problem that 10 per cent of the deaths from this disease are due to what we call "bovine tuberculosis"—that is, from tuberculosis transmitted through the milk of the cow.

When this form of the disease attacks children, the bones and joints are more likely to be involved than the lungs. Sad deformities and loss of future earning power are the results of this affliction.

When you visit a hospital given over to bone and joint diseases you are in an institution where the majority of the patients are paying the penalty of consuming milk from tubercular cows. These little folks are the innocent victims of a preventable accident.

No duty imposed on a parent is more imperative than the obligation to supply pure milk. Without it the danger of tuberculosis is very, very great.

The public is awakening to the importance of giving the disabled child the proper sort of treatment. Dotted the country are institutions dedicated to the care of little folks who are in the active or quiet stages of this dread disease.

It isn't difficult to control the symptoms of tuberculosis provided it is recognized early, and particularly if it is possible to regulate the diet and daily life of the patient. Institutional care of a sick child, in most instances certainly, is superior to the average care in a private home.

There can be no doubt that the crippled and deformed child is better off in a special hospital, unless the home is sufficiently well-to-do to provide the nursing care and necessary apparatus. The well-endowed hospitals and homes for children of this type afford better chances

Colorado Women To Unveil Monument

Lake City, Colo., Aug. 27.—Five victims of hideous cannibalism during the winter of 1873-74, honored here recently when Ladies Union Aid Society of this city sponsored the unveiling of a monument at the head of their party of 21 men was organized to go to the mountains of Colorado. When they reached the place where Montrose now stands, they found that the Indians had been heavy in the mountains and that all game had been killed. The women were then refused to heed this warning and headed for Dead Man's next spring. Alfred Packer, the six, appeared in civilization but nothing was seen of the five. Officers, acting on the story that Packer might have killed and eaten the other men, searched him and after much grilling obtained a confession. Packer was convicted and sentenced to hang for the crime, but a new trial, during which was sentenced to 50 years in the penitentiary.

HEAVY INCREASE IN AIRMAIL OF NATION IN 1928

Chicago, Aug. 27.—American business is "taking the air"

Figures released here by the American Air Transport association show that the use of air mail is climbing in gigantic strides, more than twice as much air mail having been carried in the first six months of 1928 as in the same period last year.

Between Jan. 15 and Sept. 1, 1928, more mail will be carried by planes than during the entire 12 months of 1927, it is estimated.

In 1927, a total of 1,449,364 pounds of air mail was transported and in the first seven months of this year the total was 1,266,432 pounds.

Increases Shown. Harold Cray of the American Air Transport association reports that operators are recording increases of about 30 per cent in the volume of air mail now being carried compared to one month ago, following the new five cent air mail rate for letters and reductions in the air mail parcel rate. Cray estimated that mail planes will fly between nine and ten million miles in the next 12-month period.

Business men of America, Cray said, are finding use of air mail more important daily.

A recent rush order of a San Francisco firm for ermine trimming resulted in the fur being rushed from New York to the Pacific Coast in 32 hours.

Fur From Alaska. Silver fox furs were recently flown from Alaska via Seattle to St. Louis.

New York lingerie has been shipped in 29 hours by air mail for the belles of Great Falls, Mont.

California orchids, less than 24 hours' time after leaving the greenhouses, have graced the gown of a New York matron.

An Ohio tire concern paid $42 in air postage to rush two tires to Los Angeles.

Banks are the largest users of air mail and in a single day mail planes have carried more than $24,000,000 in stocks, bonds and checks.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Prof. Thos. A. Jaggar, volcanologist, has reported to the National Geographic society the collection of data for a topographic map of 1,500 square miles of hitherto unknown territory near the end of the Alaskan peninsula. He has also gathered some rare geological, botanical and biological specimens.

The Jaggar expedition is studying volcanic phenomena in the peninsula and the neighboring Aleutian islands. A newly discovered volcanic peak was named Dana Volcano, for J. D. Dana, American volcanologist of the last century.

One of the prize captures was a huge Kodiak bear which measured 13 feet across from paw to paw. These are the largest bears known.

ed by the regional leaders as of paramount importance.

Carry Out Own Policies

One was Governor Smith's own assurance that Democratic candidates for senatorial, congressional and state officers will not be urged to wage in their respective districts the national organization's fight for modification of the Volstead act and 18th amendment, as outlined in Governor Smith's speech of acceptance.

The other was that so far as possible every state organization will be left free to carry on its campaign, independently of national direction save in cases where help is specifically sought by the state or regional managers.

These assurances of "home rule" campaigns, in the opinion of middle-western Democratic leaders, will go far to allay frequently expressed fears in the rank and file of the party that the campaign would be dominated by Tommany.

Held as City Machine

Additional assurances that Tammany is to have no prominent part in the national campaign is offered in Raskob's assertion, which he is prepared to repeat here, that the New York City organization is to be regarded in the same light as any other Democratic city machine.

If Hawes' campaign program is carried out, the principal emphasis in the drive for the 109 electoral votes represented here will be upon farm relief and Republican corruption. Prohibition is to stand for the most part on Governor Smith's vigorous demand for modification in his acceptance speech last week.

Two Go Over To Al

New York, Aug. 27.—Democratic headquarters today announced the conversion of two additional "life-long Republicans" to the support of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

One from California, and one from Ohio, both acknowledged their swing to have been inspired by Gov. Smith's vigorous advocacy of modification in his acceptance speech.

H. M. Aangle, prominent Canton, O. banker and steel operator, declared in a letter to Franklin D. Roosevelt, a member of the Democratic executive committee, that "moral courage is much greater virtue than physical courage. I am, therefore, supporting Governor Smith. National prohibition as at present constituted is unsound in principle."

Brig. Gen. W. D. Potter, president of the San Francisco community chest committee, in a letter to H. H. McPike, California Democratic chairman, declared that "prohibition is making a nation of hypocrites and I refuse longer to be a party to the proceeding. My conception of true Americanism compels me to cast my lot with Governor Smith."

GUNMEN

Hendershot and her son had been asked to watch the house during the councilman's absence.

Appointed By Council

In the afternoon he had been questioning several policemen and suspected bootleggers concerning vice conditions. He was recently appointed by city council to take charge of such a probe.

Mrs. Hendershot and her son were to turn on the flood lights in the back yard. Had she not deterred him as he was about to strike the match a terrific explosion would probably have resulted. Police did not make the incident public at the time, in the belief that secrecy would aid in clearing it up.

Mystery Phone Calls

Numerous telephone calls have been received by Ross and police, offering to clear up Friday's attempt on his life, it was revealed today. Police believe there are two warring bootleg factions here and that they will be able to capture the would be assassins by granting immunity from prosecution to "squealers" from the rival gang.

One man in particular was sought today, while many others were being questioned.

Ross said his investigation would continue, and it was reported that he is to be afforded a police guard.

Make Large Haul

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—Cash, jewelry, fur coats, silverware and other property, valued at a total of about $6,500 were taken by burglars early today from the home of William Fergus, well-known sports promoter here. Mrs. Fergus awakened and screamed while the prowlers were at their work, frightening them away.

Three persons were reported drowned near Accord when their automobile was overturned by the swollen waters of a creek near the road upon which they were traveling. According to reports a bridge

Memorial Is Adopted

Judge Farr of the appellate court, Judge W. Frank Lones of the court of common pleas and Judge Lodge Riddle of the probate court, a committee appointed by President J. H. Brookes of the Columbiana County Bar association, presented the following memorial at a meeting of the Bar association:

"Nathan Bayless Billingsley of Lisbon, died Aug. 24, 1928, at Cambridge Springs, Pa. He was born in Middlesex township, Columbiana county, Oct. 9, 1850, the son of John W. and Lydia Bayless Billingsley. Married in Lisbon, May 18, 1876 to Mary Wallace, who died Aug. 12, 1927.

"Three children were born of the marriage, Loraine and Robert Wallace, both deceased, and Horace McCook Billingsley, now practicing law in New York city.

"He was educated in the Middle-town township schools, the Lisbon High school and Mount Union college, Alliance and taught school for several years.

"Admitted to the bar Sept. 24, 1873, and served as common pleas judge of this county from 1893 to 1895.

"During time Mr. Billingsley practiced law, he had as partners these eminent lawyers: Judge J. H. Wallace, Judge R. W. Taylor, J. W. Clark, Judge U. C. DeFord, W. B. Moore and Judge E. H. VanFossan. He was a member of the firm of Wallace & Billingsley, June 1, 1874 to 1885; Wallace Billingsley & Taylor, November 1885 to 1892; Billingsley & Taylor 1892 to 1893; Billingsley, Taylor & Clark, 1893 to 1902; Billingsley, Moore & VanFossan, 1912 to 1919; Billingsley & Moore since 1919.

Had Extensive Practice

"He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and of the Duquesne club of Pittsburgh. He was a member of the American Bar association, a charter member of the Ohio State Bar association, and served on important committees in both organizations, and for many years he graced the bar association of Columbiana county as its president.

"He was prominent as a corporation lawyer, and for a number of years was president and general counsel for the P. L. & W. railroad, and at the time of his death was vice president and general manager of that company, and general counsel for the East Liverpool Traction & Light Co. He has been director and counsel for many industrial corporations.

"Judge Billingsley, as the record shows, lived almost eight years beyond the allotted Biblical span of life, and during all the years of his life he honored the community in which he lived. He was an affable and dignified gentleman, of commanding presence, an interesting companion and untiring student of the law, and a great reader of the best literature.

"He practiced in all the courts of the state of Ohio, in many of the U. S. district courts, in the circuit court of appeals of the U. S. and in the supreme court of the United States, where he was always known as an able exponent of the law, a convincing reasoner, and a brilliant advocate who was courteous to his adversaries and to the court. He never tried to mislead the court.

"He was recognized as the embodiment of the industrious, learned, painstaking lawyer, with a profound knowledge of the law.

"He had a keen intellect, which was not dulled by advancing years, but was most keen and brilliant to the very end.

"Those who knew the judge best, loved and respected him most. He was loyal to his profession, and scrupulously observed its code of ethics; he was loyal to his clients and his friends, and he was loyal to his family.

Felt Wife's Loss Hard

"Judge Billingsley and his wife lived for many years in an apartment in the Hostetter hotel in Lisbon, where on many occasions the writers of the resolutions met him and Mrs. Billingsley, and were always highly entertained by the judge recounting important events in his life, interesting discussions of notable cases in which he had participated, and learned reviews of current literature.

"After the death of Mrs. Billingsley Aug. 12, 1927, the judge was lonesome, pathetically lonely. In his later years he had been accustomed to spend his evenings in his rooms at the hotel among his books, and with his life companion, one that knew him, one that loved, respected and admired him, one that seemed but to live to make life happier and brighter for him, one who noted his every desire and his needs, and sought to gratify and supply them. True the books were left, but that sacred companionship had ceased, and he sought fellowship among good friends of the town where they congregated in the evening, and would often say: "You are not going home now are you, it's early yet, I came to visit awhile."

"The community has lost a gentleman of many fine parts, a most worthy citizen, who aided in the promotion of its welfare to the best of his ability, and who was ever deeply interested in the advancement of every worthy cause, and the bar has lost its oldest and most honored member in this county.

"We hereby record our sincere appreciation of his character and ability, his industry and integrity, his earnest co-operation in public matters as a citizen, and his unfailing helpfulness and kindly spirit as a friend.

"Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this association, and be entered upon the journals of the probate court, the court of common pleas, and the court of appeals of this county, that a copy be furnished the newspapers, and a copy be presented to his son, Horace McCook Billingsley of New York city."

FIREMAN KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

12 Hurt, One Seriously,
As Fog Causes Toledo
Wreck Early Sunday

Toledo, Aug. 27.—Vaine Kramer, 30, Columbus, Hocking Valley railroad fireman, was dead today and 12 persons injured, one seriously, as the result of a head-on collision between a passenger train and a northbound freight, three miles south of Wallbridge, near here, yesterday.

The injured: Engineer William Spaeth, Columbus, (seriously hurt); F. E. Kasnick, Detroit; Mrs. P. P. Coverdale, Toledo; Mrs. Russell A. Walkey, Lancaster, O.; Mrs. Charles R. Griffith, Cleveland; R. C. Cohen, Detroit; Miss Helen Field, Columbus; Mrs. A. H. Field, Lansing, Mich.; Margaret Oakfield, Columbus; R. K. Sheldon, Columbus; A. Wheat, Detroit; John Williams, Detroit.

With the exception of Speth, none of the injured received more than a severe shaking up and slight bruises.

The passenger train left Toledo for Columbus at 4:30 a. m. At the time a dense fog obscured vision from the engine cabs, and this was blamed for the collision which occurred when the freight pulled out of a siding and crashed into the southbound passenger train.

Both locomotives were wrecked, but only one passenger car left the rails.

The freight was carrying airplane equipment for the antarctic expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd. The equipment was badly damaged.

She refused to make any statements before the meeting.

LORD PREDICTS 1929 DEFICIT

1928 Fiscal Year Ended With Huge Surplus, But
Loss Is Foreseen

Washington, Aug. 27.—The United States government closed the fiscal year 1928 on June 30 with a $398,828,281.06 surplus, according to the annual report of H. M. Lord, director of the Bureau of the Budget, made public today.

The surplus was $198,124,412.01 above the estimate when the budget was submitted to congress. Of this surplus $367,358,710.12 was used in a further reduction of the public debt beyond the cut of $540,255,020.39 required to be made from ordinary receipts making a total reduction of the debt of $907,613,730.42 during the year.

A deficit of $94,279,346 was forecast for the 1929 fiscal year. Not since the war has the government showed a deficit.

Previously a surplus of $250,000,000 has been predicted. Increased governmental expenditures and possible decline in tax and customs receipts were given as reasons for the prospective loss.

Clemenceau, Former Premier of France, Skeptical of Treaty

Paris, Aug. 27.—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger of France," professed skepticism today over the permanent value of the treaty outlawing war.

Interviewed at his home in St. Vincent En Jard, the war-time prime minister said: "Life is what we make it and it is so with the Kellogg anti-war treaty. That will be what the signatories make it. The whole thing is none of my business. I was not invited to attend the ceremony of signing, why should I have been? I have been out of the picture for years. I want to stay out. I agree that the Kellogg pact will make war more difficult but after all it is always difficult to start a war. Probably when the present generation has gone sentiment surrounding the signing of the pact will have changed and we will find ourselves back at the same place we started from."

STRESEMANN IS DUE FOR OUSTER MOVE, IS REPORT

Berlin, Aug. 27.—Signing of the Kellogg anti-war treaty in Paris this afternoon may be the last important political act of Gustav Stresemann, German foreign secretary. A campaign has been started within the government parties to replace Dr. Stresemann partly on account of ill health and partly on account of the collapse of his reconciliation policy. It is held that Germany has been put back into the position she occupied before the signing of the Locarno pact as a result of the new entente reached between Great Britain and France.

Dr. Stresemann is blamed also for the failure of Germany to obtain the friendly backing of America.

According to belief in political circles the only thing that can save the official life of the foreign secretary is agreement by the French to evacuate the Rhineland. In view of the Adamant French attitude no one believes this will come to pass.

Plane Injures Six As It Crashes Into Crowd At Airport

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27.—Six persons were being treated today for injuries sustained when an airplane crashed into a large crowd as it taxied across the Curtis Airport here late yesterday. Four of the victims were injured seriously.

The plane, piloted by A. B. Fesko, of Milwaukee, had attained considerable speed and was preparing to leave the ground when the pilot observed he would not be able to clear the crowd. The throng became panic stricken and failed to open a path. Unable to stop the plane, Fesko chose a spot where the crowd was thinnest and the plane plowed through the fringe of spectators.

New York, Aug. 27.—A prize of $25,000 for the best plan for making the 18th amendment effective was offered today by W. C. Durant, president of Durant Motors, Inc. Durant, who is in Paris announcing the contest by cable. Before sailing last week he made a formal statement endorsing Hoover for president. Durant's announcement of the contest said:

"The major issue in our country today is the problem of law enforcement and obedience to law. To paraphrase the words of Lincoln, it is a question whether our institutions can endure with a citizenship half lawless and half law-abiding."

"We are imperiled by the widespread violation of the liquor law embodied in the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States, the highest law of the land."

"Big business leaders who have the largest stake in law observance publicly and privately violate this law and countenance its violation by others. Instead of using their wealth and influence to create public opinion demanding law enforcement, our business men of character and position are the chief support of the master criminal class, the bootlegger."

"DON'T MARRY"

"Don't Marry," the laughable feature which is at the State tonight and tomorrow centers around a young man with up-to-date ideas in almost everything except where femininity is concerned. He likes his girls old-fashioned—at least he thinks he does—and becomes engaged to one of this type under the illusion that he is terribly in love with her, leaving in the lurch the girl, who according to all destiny, is really intended for him and he for her.

Neil Hamilton is the hero that chases the old-fashioned females in the picture and Lois Moran the girl that loves him but is unable to make any headway with his affections because she is not the type that goes to bathing beaches in passe bathing suit and stockings and wears her street dresses according to fashion, high and revealing.

She works out a plot wherein, just as the would-be bride and groom come to the altar, matrimonial intentions of both are baffled and she wins Hamilton for herself.

The story contains an impossible plot that is full of laugh-bringing situations and a love theme that is fine.

ference of custom and adverse relatives becomes almost impossible in the theme of the impressive plot in Corinne Griffith's feature, "Garden of Eden," which opens at the Grand tonight.

The plot is entirely different than those of other stories; Miss Griffith and her leading man, Charles Ray present two powerful roles that have never before been presented in their characterization of a young cabaret singer and prince at Monte Carlo, where they meet and the love theme of the plot opens.

Each loves the other immediately but just as they are passing to the altar to the tunes of "Lohengrin," she is recognized by another aristocrat who once saw her in the role of a cabaret singer. Everything is set right, and Miss Griffith, realizing that she had done wrong, confesses. Emissaries, claiming to come from Ray offer her money to leave, and she tears her bridal dress from her, enraged at the thought that her lover would have such a change of mind.

Dashing out of the church, however, the prince catches her and stops her, carries her to her bedroom in her "undress," where behind locked doors they are married, despite the threats of his relatives to break in the door and arrest her.

A comedy, "Big Bertha" is featured with "Garden of Eden."

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

A Few English Cold Sweets

Cold desserts for hot days have a general appeal. Tiring of ice cream, it is nice to have substitutes. Try some of the following recipes which our English cousins hold in high esteem.

Velvet Cream

Dissolve a rounded tablespoonful of gelatin in a half cupful of water, when melted add a half glassful of sugar, a wineglass of homemade wine, or cordial, a half pint of cream whipped stiffly. Melt the sugar in the hot gelatin water, then add the wine and cream. Turn into a wet mould and set to firm and chill. Serve with whipped chilled and sweetened cream.

Banana Blanc Manger

Bring to boiling point a pint and three-quarters of milk, adding a halfcupful of sugar. Mix two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a quarter pint of milk, turn into the hot milk and stir as it thickens, cooking gently for about five minutes. Cool slightly, then add the beaten yolks of two eggs and stir as it thickens. Now stir in two thinly sliced bananas and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour into a wet mould, cool, chill and serve with plain cream or lemon gelatin.

Coffee Custard

Bring a half-pint of milk to boiling point, then pour it over the beaten yolks of four eggs and the beaten whites of two, add a half cupful of hot, strong coffee, a few grains of salt, and sugar to taste. Pour into a buttered custard bowl, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and bake until set. Cool, chill, and serve with cream.

Lemon Sponge

Heat a half pint of water with a tablespoonful of gelatin powder, a quarter cupful of sugar, when melted turn over the juice of a lemon mixed with the white of an egg. Whisk all together until stiff, then turn into a wet mould and chill. Unmould on a cold plate.

Snow Eggs

Beat the yolks of five eggs. Bring a pint of milk to boiling point, adding a half cupful of sugar. Add the beaten eggs, then a teaspoonful of vanilla and strain into a cooking bowl. Set the bowl in a saucepan of slowly boiling water and stir as the custard thickens. Remove when thick and set to cool, then chill. Meantime beat the egg whites to a stiff froth, then drop by the tablespoonful into boiling water to poach, turning them often until firm. Place them in a glass dish and when it is cold turn the custard around them. Chill and serve.

Apple Water Ice

Make a pint of apple sauce in the usual way and strain it free from lumps, after cooking. Add to it a pint of light vanilla syrup, when cold flavor with the juice of a large lemon and freeze.

Melon Water Ice

Remove the seeds from a good-sized honey dew melon, pare off the rind thickly and slice thin and put into a saucepan with a quart of water, three-quarters of a cupful of sugar, then boil ten minutes. Put through a puree sieve, then cool. When cold add the strained juice of two oranges and two lemons and a wineglass of Maraschino.

Freeze as usual. This is sufficient for eight servings.

Tea Ice Cream

Bring a pint of milk with a half vanilla pod in it to boiling point. Let stand for five minutes, then turn over two tablespoonfuls of dry tea, cover closely and let stand five minutes, then strain. Beat four eggs and add to them three quarters of a cupful of sugar, then add the prepared tea mixture. Put all into a saucepan and stir until it thickens. Cool slightly, strain and add a half pint of whipped cream. Freeze as usual.

It pays to go to the Buick Dealer

Two used cars may look much the same from the outside. Mileage, model, tires and general appearance may be all about alike.

Yet there may be a great deal of difference nevertheless—a difference in mechanical condition which will soon show up in actual driving.

You have only the word of the dealer to go by.

That's why it pays to go to the Buick dealer. You can rely on what he says. And you may be sure his price is fair.

GEOLOGY HELPS OIL COMPANIES FIND DEPOSITS

Work 15 Years Old Now;
Big Fields Brought In
By Modern Method

Wichita, Kan., Aug. 27.—Fifteen years ago an oil company in quest of new fields made the first application of the science of geology for this particular purpose in the immense Mid Continent region near Wichita.

For a number of years geologists had noted the fact that the oil fields of Pennsylvania were found along the crests of folded and arched beds of surface rock formations. It was suggested to the oil companies seeking new fields that they hunt out the spots in the prospective territory where folds existed in the surface formation and drill their wildcat wells on the crests or axis of these poles.

The Empire Gas & Fuel Co. was the first in the world to apply the idea, says William L. Ainsworth, vice president of the Western Petroleum Exploration company which does much of the work of analyzing the prospective fields.

Two Big Fields
Bringing in the Augusta and the El Dorado fields in Kansas, two of the largest at the time that they were brought in, the latter now being one of the big producers was the contribution of the Empire Gas & Fuel Co. to the world's supply of petroleum.

Even more significant than the actual production of millions of barrels of oil for the world's consumption is the fact that this pioneering act in the use of geology to find new fields has revolutionized one phase of the industry. It has eliminated some of the early gamble attached to it at the time that Rockefeller began to amass his fortune in Standard Oil, besides making for a much larger production than would have been possible had the gambling chance remained in the business.

Throughout the Mid Continent region practically all of the areas, where surface formations are exposed for the geologist's work have been mapped.

Drills Are Useful
There still exists, however, in this great Middle West territory, vast areas of land where the geologist cannot map the surface because soil, silt or sand covers these rock beds necessary in determining places favorable to the accumulation of oil and gas.

One method, however, is being used to overcome this difficulty since the invention of the diamond drills, now in common use wherever oil is being produced. The geologists, upon the assumptions gained from investigations in the neighboring sections, may have a

Mahoning County Fair Will Have Pageant Of Progress

Mahoning county's fair will be enlivened by the Pageant of Progress which will be given by the schools of the county on Saturday evening, Sept. 1 and Monday evening, Sept. 3. The Pageant of Progress will represent the following episodes:

Episode one will portray courage and hope by presenting the scene at the Court of Ferdinand and Isabella when Columbus applied for aid.

Episode two will portray faith and service through several scenes re-enacting the life of the Puritans; the building of the first Puritan cabin, outdoor Puritan church and the outdoor Puritan school.

Episode three portrays beauty and fertility. This will be done by means of ballets in which corn and white will be seen in the fields, rain will enter, sunbeams will disperse the raindrops and the sun produces golden grain.

Episode four will present 'The spirit of '76. This will consist of several scenes such as the Colonial Townpeople, the Ride of Paul Revere, the Minute Men and the Vision.

"hunch" that oil or gas is underlying the surface in nearby areas.

With these assumptions worked out as well as the facts will permit, a rather crude drilling is made in the area where the oil may be. Although not so exact as the geologists' work on the rock formations, many good wells have been brought in by this method, Ainsworth states.

Drilling Not Expensive
In this dissertation on the matter Ainsworth explodes the popular conception that all oil drilling is excessively expensive. He points out that the cost of core drilling is not prohibitive and outside the possible range of operations of the so-called small operator. He states that it is a rare case when one year's rentals of a block or even a portion of the year's rentals will not pay for the cost of drilling.

"It is a foolish venture to put up a rig and drill a well costing forty or fifty thousand dollars on just any location where the surface formations are covered when a few thousand dollars spent for core drilling might eliminate a very great part of the chance," Ainsworth states.

This statement was a well worded attack upon the operators and salesmen who either unwittingly or with malice to gain money have sold bogus stock to unsuspecting widows, farmers and others to do an operation at the inflated price.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Somerville Wednesday at the Alliance City hospital.

Episode five will portray national pride and strength. This will be done through a scene presenting the colonial men and women at their work, the old fashioned solo step-dance and the minuet by colonial men and women.

Episode six will introduce love and charity and present the Spirit of Civil War by means of a ballet.

Episode seven will present the military fantasy which will consist of drills of the American Red Cross and the Liberty loan.

Episode eight will represent wealth and prosperity as well as progress. This will be done by means of the drill of the Boy Scouts.

Episode nine will represent commerce.

The living flag which will be portrayed by 108 performers will be the most spectacular part of the pageant. While the grand finale of the pageant welded together by means of a great wheel will be the most desirable thing in the pageant. The pageant concludes with the audience singing America.

SUCCESS

About a year ago, we announced to the motorists of Salem the inauguration of a time payment purchase plan on PENNSYLVANIA VACUUM CUP TIRES, thus becoming the Original Credit Tire Store in this locality.

This plan has made possible many enjoyable automobile trips and pleasant drives for people who otherwise would have had to stay home, because they lacked immediate cash to buy new tires. And then, there were those who could pay cash, if necessary, but preferred to buy on a budget plan, out of current earnings, rather than capital.

It pleases us to say, and we are thankful, that our plan has been a tremendous success, with both the motoring public and ourselves. This year we have added many new features to our sales policy which now includes:

- 1—EASY TIME PAYMENTS
- 2—LIBERAL TRADE-IN ALLOWANCE
- 3—REVISED STANDARD WARRANTY

- 4—PLEASANT SERVICE
- 5—UTMOST SAFETY
- 6—LONGEST MILEAGE
